

¡Hola a todos!

I hope that you are all keeping well.

As the weather is a bit grey this week, how about settling down somewhere cosy to do some crafts while practising your Spanish?!

This week, you can make your own colourful abanico (Spanish fan). If you have ever been to Spain, you may well have seen abanicos in shops. You may also have seen them being used in the Spanish dance style, flamenco. You can learn a bit more about flamenco dancing by watching this short introductory clip:

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/programmes/p011mw7s>

Afterwards, you can follow this link for instructions on making your own Spanish fan:

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/topics/zfg9whv/articles/znn98xs>

To practise your colours, you could write the colours in Spanish on the fan. My daughter, Anna, made her own special rainbow fan where she wrote out all the colours of the rainbow in Spanish and then drew a rainbow. You can see a photo of it below - can you spot who is holding the fan?!

You can also practise colours in Spanish by playing some games on the below links:

<https://www.spanish-games.net/spanishlessons?topic=Colours&level=primary>

<https://rockalingua.com/games/colors>

If you need to a reminder of your colours in Spanish, below is a list:

Los Colores	The Colours
rojo	red
naranja	orange
amarillo	yellow
verde	green
azul	blue
morado	purple
negro	black
blanco	white
marrón	brown

I hope that you have a good week and I miss you all lots!

I hope you all have a lovely week!

iHasta pronto!

Señora Pocock